Anne Duggan

Dear Anne,

Throughout the three years we've known each other I believe in our first year in high school together has been the most rewarding. We have acquired new hobbies and enjoyed the challenges of Girl Scouts together. And with Kathy and Sharon have had many interesting discussions on all sorts of things. Each year I think we learn to know each other better and my affection for you grows. I sincerely hope we stay friends and never part enemies. I said I'd make this a page but I don't think I'll make it but not because I have nothing to say about our friendship. I'm sure it will stay strong and true during all our high school years.

I'm positive everything you indulge in will turn out fine and I give you my best wishes for everything you do. Well, I've got to stop now because the bell rang but I wish you a sincere Bonne Chance!

Lots of Love

Fondly

FOREWORD AND THEME

Every student lives a life of hours. The sleepy hours after not making it to bed the night before term paper day. The scared foreverness before a big formal, or those last two minutes that win a basketball game. That dreary last hour before a long vacation, or the too short hour during a big exam. Taking the long way home on report card day; rushing home with a long sought "A." Working hours and hours on a class float; yelling "We're from Rich." Watching assemblies, and studying. The long spell of winter suddenly yawning, and lazily turning into soft breezes, sometimes rainy, but, yet, spring. The hours grow into days and as they pass, another school year is gone. But all the specialness of the year remains as a part of the student. A yearbook belongs to this student. It is his because his youth filled and made the year. This is the student's school: he is the one who lends the warmth and freshness to make her special, to fill her hours. The student choses how this time is filled. This is his tale. The yearbook staff has tried to tell it well.

1960 PROM COURT AND ESCORTS

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

The boy crossing his fingers and asking the girl in chemistry, or maybe study hall, then saving pennies, and buttering up Dad for the car, wondering what color flowers will really look best with a red dress; the girl wondering when he will stop hinting in chemistry, or maybe study hall, and get around to asking, then trying on dress after dress, dieting, cutting hair or pulling and tugging to try to make it grow; both waiting, waiting for that day, then smiling at their teachers in every class and rushing home to get ready when seventh period finally ends: the Junior-Senior Prom means excitement for the upperclassman. And for the underclassman the imagined fantasy awaits. The coming pride in being an upperclassman entwines with the promise of the Prom. The Seniors remember their own Prom of the last year with a twinkle, and a taunt to the Juniors to match their achievement. Their own was wonderful by simply being their creation. Now with the conclusion of their high school days is the serenity of walking into another's faery land. After hard hectic planning to find ways to raise money, to choose the best theme, the Juniors have the best part of the Prom, turning a gym into a realm of faery enchantment and presenting a court and queen to rule over it. Each year of one's high school days the Prom gains a new and different meaning, yet, always the meaning is something warm and bright, the happy ending of another year.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

Reminiscence is a wonderful activity. It will be particularly warm and personable as I exercise memories of the Class of 1961. I shall remember you as a sensitive class, in the discreet meaning of being easily and deeply moved. You loved your high school and worked mightily for its welfare. You are a loyal class and left your mark on our traditions and customs. You are a scholarly class, having been cited for more scholarships than any class to date. I salute you with dignity and respect, as a class which reflected fully the goals of Rich High.

Sincerely yours,

Robert G Andree

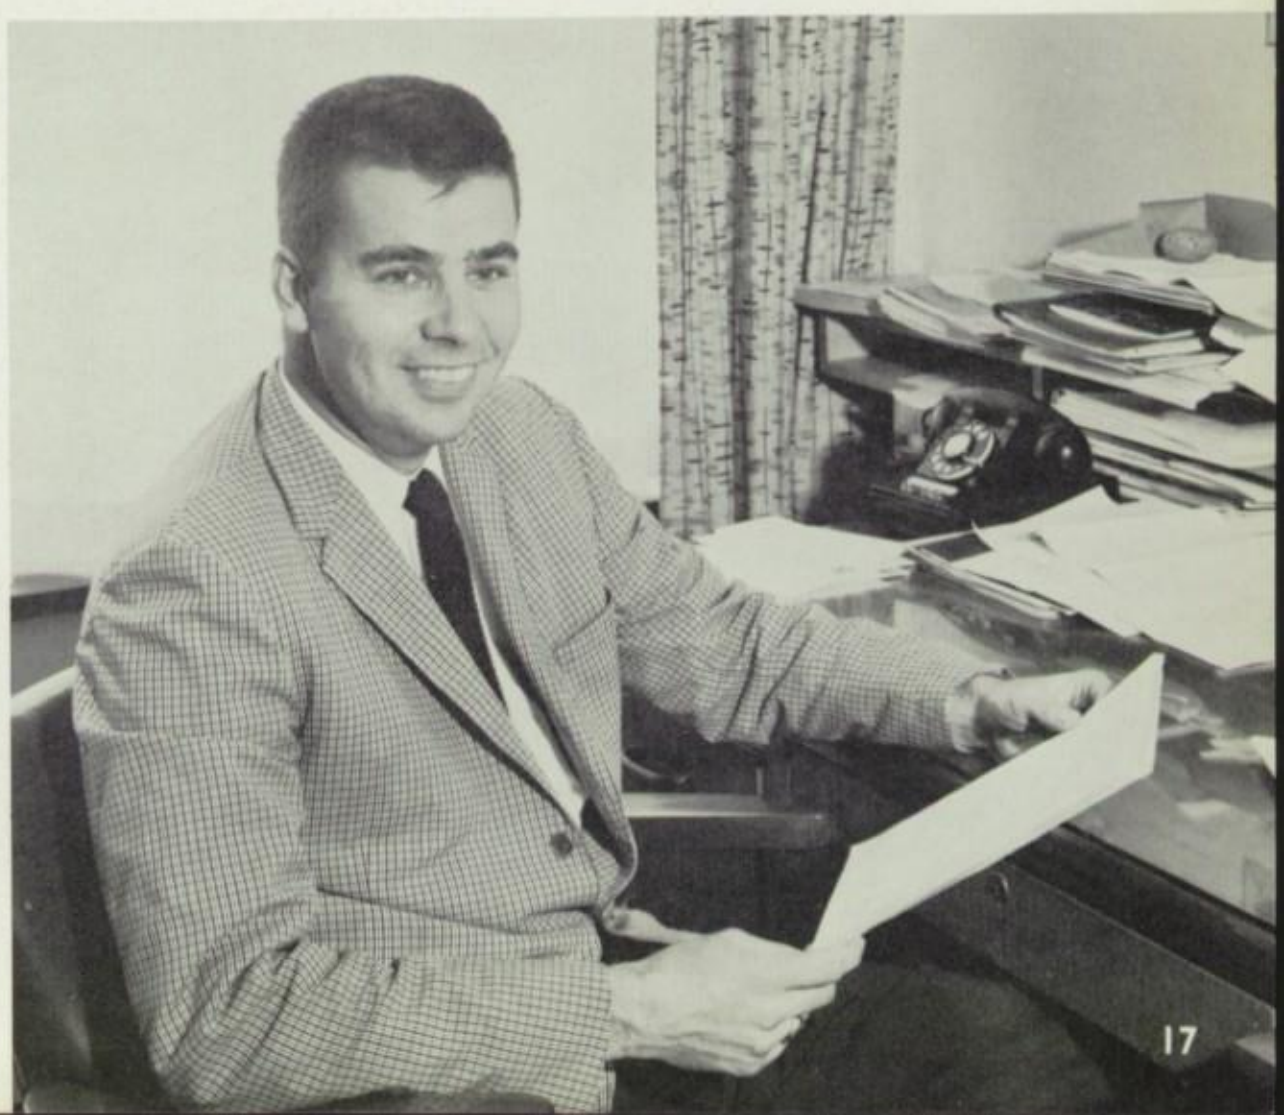
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

A yearbook is something to be treasured for it becomes more meaningful and important as time goes by. Today you will look at the pictures and quickly scan its contents. Tomorrow you will slowly study each page thinking of those with whom you once spent many happy days.

I hope that this has been a profitable and meaningful year for each of you. We will follow your progress with interest and pride.



OLYMPIA SCHOOL

And amidst the weeds a modern school

Robert Miller

The "second Rich" in Olympia Fields will be completed next fall for grades nine and ten. Mr. Miller, our administrative assistant for the last seven years, who is on a sabbatical this year, will return to serve as principal for the new school. The administrative members of Rich will supervise the new school along with our school.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Make no mistake—each of you will make a contribution to the future—if not to the future of the world or the nation—then to the future of your community, friends or family.

The question is—how shall you insure that yours is the best contribution you can make.

I would suggest that you think in terms of unleashing the great, and virtually untapped, potential of people. Just as man has unleashed the power of the nucleus of the atom, the explosive capacities of man are waiting to be more fully released. To assist in doing this, a mature sense of values, recognize and use your imagination, find new ways to motivate yourself and others, and above all seek and accept spiritual guidance.

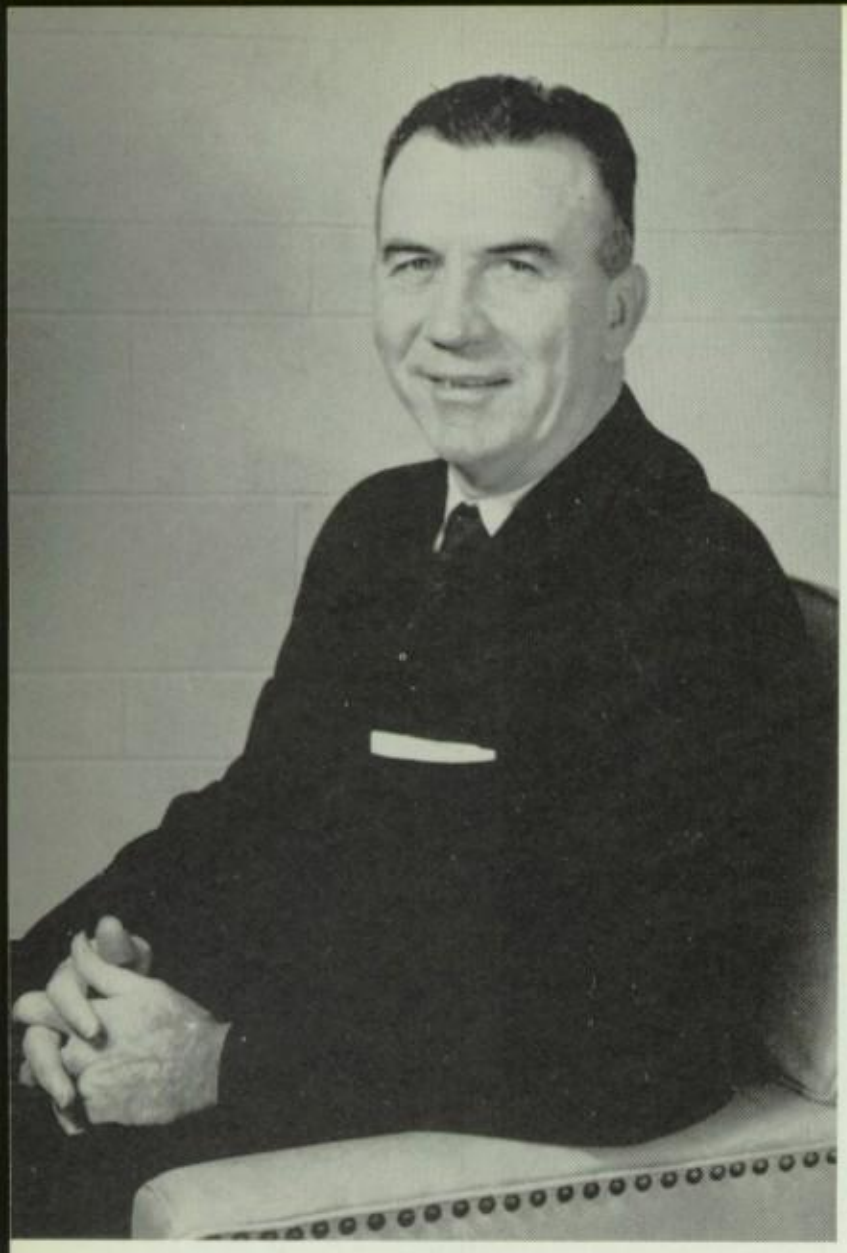
ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL



Gregory Sloan, Director of General Services

The weekly meetings of the Administrative Council bring together the four heads of divisions, the business manager, the administrative assistant and the superintendent, Dr. Andree. The Director of General Services, a newly formulated position to fulfill many duties as counselship for the faculty and non-certified employees, direction of the school's public relations, is also a member of the council. During their meetings and throughout the year the members of the council work together in an attempt to formulate the best coordinated educational program possible in all divisions. Serious problems which may occur among the faculty or student body come to their consideration. The council serves as a director in extra-curricular activities such as special field trips. An efficient working school led by the wisdom of several men, capable of meeting arising problems, is provided by the influence of the Administrative Council.

Counselors serve as guides for all the students during their years at Rich. Freshman counselors have the important job of helping the freshman adjust to the new surroundings and routine of high school. They, together with the sophomore and junior counselors, assist the student in choosing a balanced curriculum. The senior counselors guide seniors in developing their future plans, whether college, the service or an immediate career.

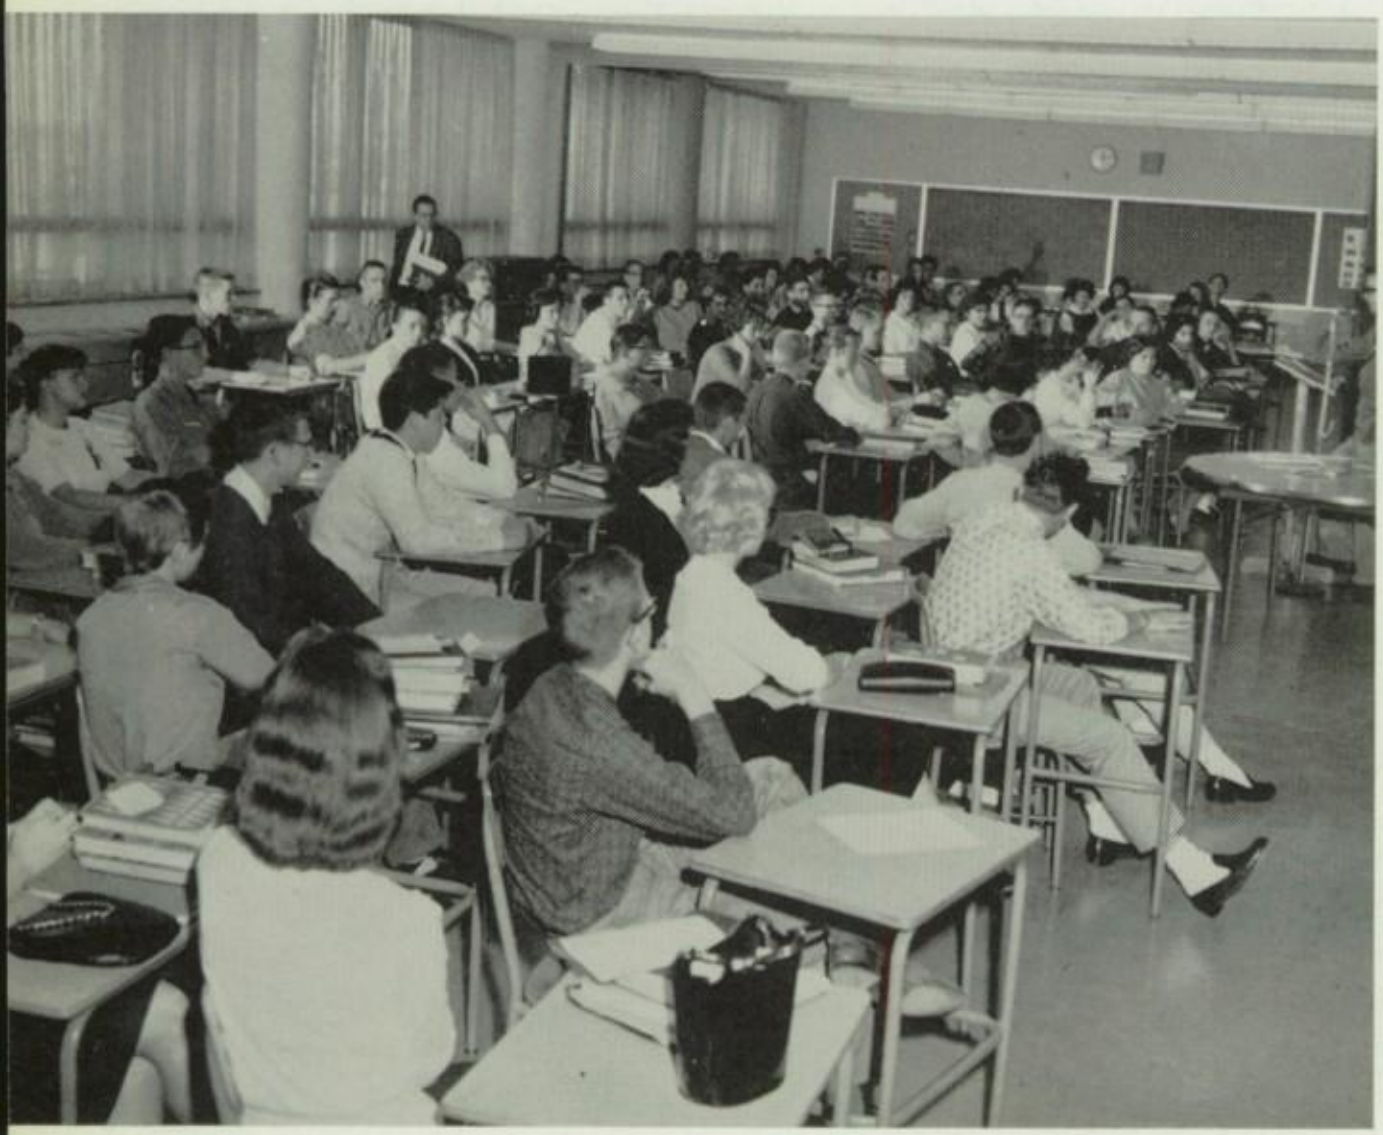
SOCIAL STUDIES



Social studies courses scan the course of history from ancient times through the modern era and help students recognize various social, political and economic concepts of the world.

The experimental American History classes, three times larger than the average class, were continued. This year the classes were taught by Mr. McGrew and Mr. Sandefer.

Seniors displaying exceptional ability were offered a further enrichment of the development of Western Culture through History of Western Civilization.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Foreign language courses not only enable the student to read and speak the language, but they acquaint him with the geography, history and culture of the country in which the language originated.

The department was expanded to include a fourth year course in German and a second year course in Russian, in addition to the four years of Latin, French and Spanish already offered.

The language laboratory proved to be a great aid in learning grammar and pronunciation.

SCIENCE

The Division of Science participated in a project under the National Science Foundation along with seventy-five other schools in the nation. Under this system chemistry was taught through the Chemical Bond Approach. In the course the theme was the concept of chemical bonds. Emphasis was on theory rather than description. Honors classes were again offered in physics and chemistry to those more capable students. To further advance interested students a weekly evening seminar was conducted and open to those students who proved themselves interested and able.

The object of the Mathematics Department was to meet the needs and abilities of each student. This was attained by dividing the students into three tracks according to their rate of comprehension. The sequence of courses for the four years was formulated so that a basic or wide background might be acquired. For those students with the interest and ability a seminar class was conducted where the student proceeded at his own pace and studied varied subjects.

The Division of Applied Arts consists of three sections. Industrial Arts offers progressive courses in such subjects as woodworking, metal working, electricity and auto-mechanics. The practical application of manual ability is taught to those interested in pursuing it as either a vocation or avocation. In Homemaking many varied courses are also offered. Girls are prepared for becoming capable homemakers. A course in home management is offered. The Business department with its various courses, including typing, shorthand, office practice and business management, greatly aids students interested in this field.

APPLIED ARTS

FINE ARTS

The Fine Arts program is designed to give those students possessing talent and interest in music and art the opportunity to develop their talents thoroughly.

The instrumental department, under the direction of Mr. Jones, and the vocal department, under the direction of Mr. Simpson, provided a well-rounded program for students of varying musical ability.

The arts and crafts program offered a variety of courses in many fields of art.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The purpose of the special education program is to provide each student with the attitudes, academic skills and work habits which will enable him or her to become a contributing and productive member of the community. To accomplish this, an individualized program geared to each student's capacities is organized in the various skills of mathematics, science, social science, language arts and occupational readiness. In areas of learning such as typing, physical education, home economics, arts and crafts, and business education many of these students are integrated in regular classes. It is planned that each student prior to completion of his high school program will be placed in a work situation which he finds satisfying and in which he is successful under the supervision of the special education department headed by Mr. Benson.

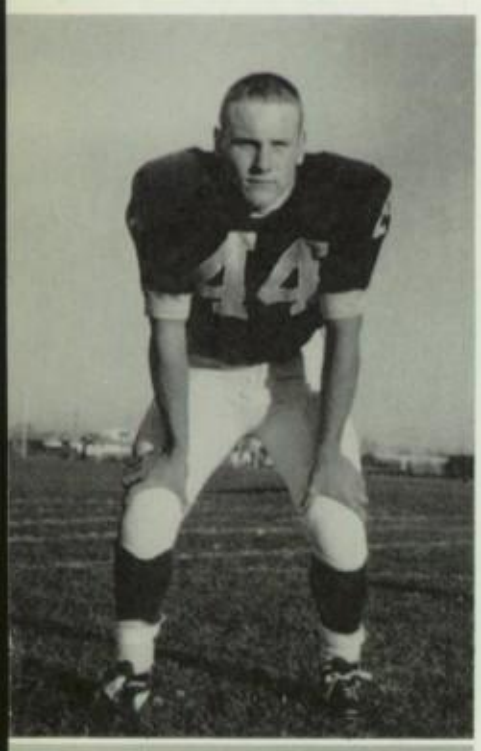
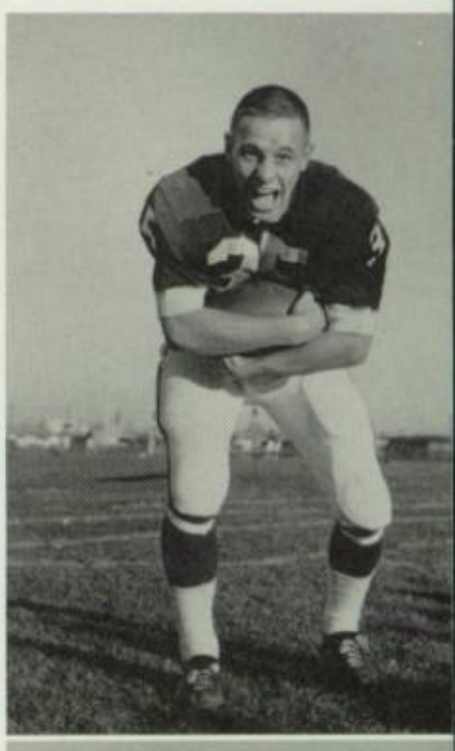
FOOTBALL VARSITY

J. Russell





Rich High's 1960 football team posted a season record of five wins and two losses in conference play. The season was highlighted by a 13-6 victory over arch rival Bloom, and a 40-13 romp of Bremen. After a rather rough beginning George Egofske guided the Rockets to five straight victories and a second place finish in the conference.

The team was led by the fine defensive play of Jim Russell, and the outstanding offensive work of leading ground gainer and top conference scorer Jim Howard.

The 1960 Frosh-Soph gridders started off their season with the romping of Bloom 13-0, only to wind up the season posting a 4 win-4 loss record. Throughout the season the Little Rockets showed great offensive and defensive thrust. These assets plus the team spirit, which is not unfamiliar at Rich, foretells of promising years to come on the gridiron.

Winding up in a tie for sixth place with Oak Lawn, the Varsity finished the season with a three-won, eleven-lost, conference record and an overall season posting of six-won, fifteen-lost record.

The season was highlighted by an impressive victory over highly rated Bloom. Other thrilling moments were two wins over Reavis, one by two points, the other by five points in an overtime, and a one point loss to Carl Sandburg.

The Rocket's playing was sparked by the fine skill of senior, Tom Meehan and junior, center-forward, Gil Hooper.

The Scoreboard

by John McNeely

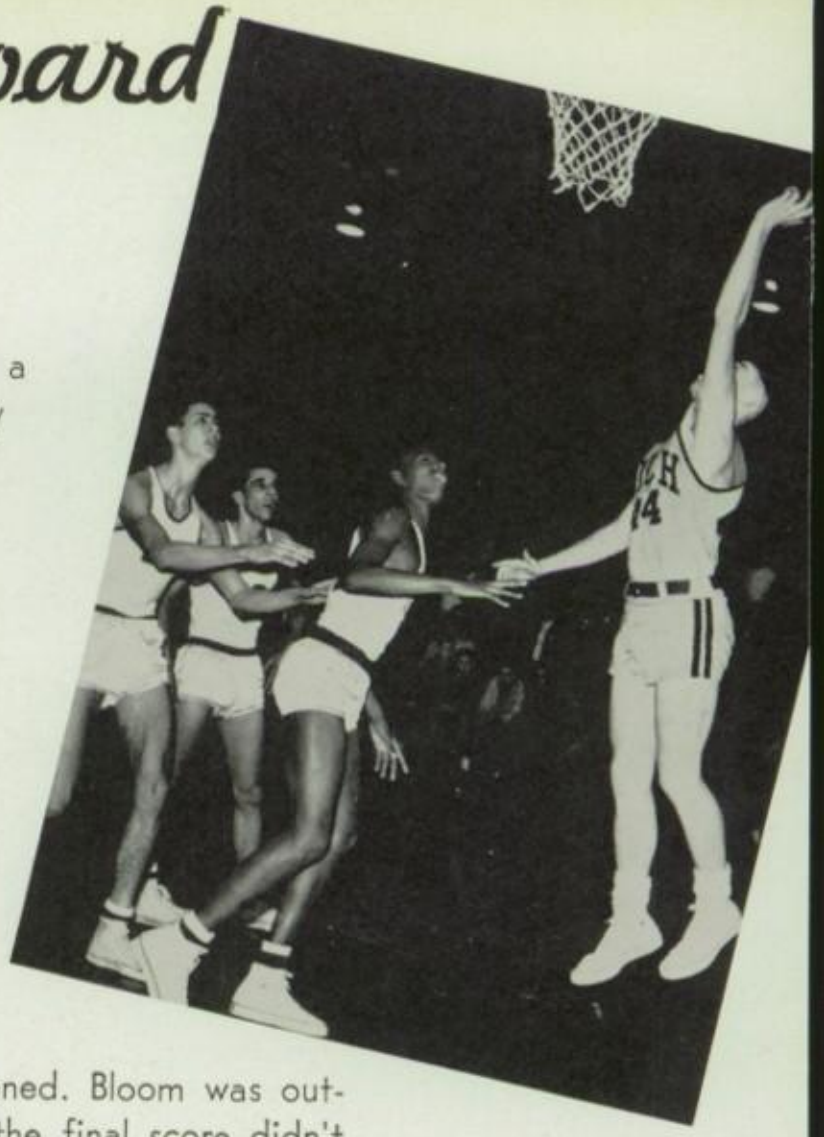
My predicition would be a Bloom victory by twenty points.



Rich beat Bloom. The impossible has happened. Bloom was outclassed from beginning to end even through the final score didn't indicate this.

Rich beat Bloom. Rich came from a deficit of three points at halftime, 31-28, to overcome Bloom by a score of 67-59,

Rich beat Bloom. This was the first time Rich has beaten Bloom in season play. However, Rich has never lost to Bloom in Regional Tournament play.

Rich beat Bloom.

Last week it was announced that Bloom will meet Rich in the first game of the Joliet Regionals. Many of my friends, and enemies as well, have asked me to make another prediction.

However, as I value my life highly, I will merely say that Bloom is a big favorite, but that favorites in a Bloom-Rich game do not always end up being the winner.

CHEERLEADERS

Instilling school spirit into all who attended the athletic events throughout the year, the cheerleaders showed their unusual gymnastic ability and enthusiasm. Win, lose, or draw, this inspired group kept the fans bubbling with a "back-the-team" spirit.

VARSITY

This year's Varsity Rockets posted the best record in the history of wrestling at Rich. The team, 11-5 for the season, was directed by Coach George Egofske. Among the team merits are a third place finish in the sixteen team Illinois State Normal University Tourney a fourth place finish in the District Tournament held at Thornton and a seventh place finish in the Sectional Tourney at Blue Island. The team was paced by Marty Lyman's 24-5 record, and Bob Campbell's 22-5 record. Both boys were quarter finalists in the state championships. Lyman also led the team with six pins. Bob Campbell made the first string on the all-conference team; Lyman, Dodge, Russell and Weslund made the second string.

FROSH-SOPH

This year's little Rockets, under the direction of Coach Ihlanfeldt, posted a twelve-won, four-lost record. The team, led by Chuck Watt's thirteen pins and Al Cornet's outstanding seventeen-won, two-lost record, highlighted the season with a second place finish in the first annual Rich High Fresh-Soph Wrestling Tournament. Other season highlights included victories over Wheaton, Lockport, Naperville and Thornton.

R. Hall

The flying Rockets, led by senior stalwarts, Tom Kordewick and Bob Hall, compiled a two-win, eight-loss record. Although Bob Hall took either first or second place in every event he entered, the team as a whole didn't have enough experience to place against the top teams in the state with whom they were in competition.

Again this year the Modern Dance group added to musical presentations their own touch of beauty as artistic expressionists. Their participation in the Thanksgiving assembly and the Spring Festival highlighted this year's activities.

The G.A.A. is composed of girls interested in intramural sports. Basketball, volleyball, archery and softball are included in this program. A few of the more important activities sponsored by G.A.A. this year were the Spinsters' Spree, and G.A.A. summer camp.

The overwhelming turnout for Varsity athletic competition has made this service organization one of the largest and best at Rich. The major fund raising project of the club was selling programs at all sporting events held at home.

The Pep Club brought to the football and basketball games their usual enthusiasm and spirit. Because of their school spirit, they laid the foundation for enthusiastic participation by the student body in the cheers at the games.

VARSITY

TRACK

This year's varsity trackmen had a poor one win-five loss conference record and a one win-four loss non-conference record. Despite the mediocre season, the team won two first-place trophies in the conference meet held at Carl Sandburg. Our trackmen also set five school and three conference records. The new school records consist of the 100 yd. dash, the 440 yd., the broad jump, the mile relay and the shot-put. The 880 and milé relays and the shot-put make up the conference records.

Because of the inclement weather the Rich High golf team failed to live up to expectation. With lettermen Collins, Bamer, Taradash and Long returning, a strong team was expected. Only four matches were played before entering district and conference competition, two with Crete-Monee, one with Oak Lawn and a triangle meet with Homewood-Flossmoor and Carl Sandburg. On the bright side of the season, Jim Collins placed fourth in the district tournament and tied for second in conference.

The 1960 Rich Rocket Varsity Baseball season was marked with inconsistency. At times displaying outstanding ability, the Rockets swept through their first five games without defeat, only to do a complete turnabout and lose six of thirteen conference games for a fourth place finish.

The season was highlighted by a three day trip to Carbondale, in which the Rockets swept a two game series and also the capturing of the Bloom district championship with shutouts over Crete-Monee and Bloom.

The Rockets offered a powerful offense with four .300 hitters (Brenner, Russell, Sammons, Howard) and the strong pitching of Riordon, Sammons, and Wagner in compiling a 13 won-7 lost slate. Russell had 22 RBI's and four H.R.'s while Riordon compiled an outstanding 6 won-1 lost record. Hard hitting third baseman Greg Stafansson was chosen as the team's most valuable player. The team was guided by coaches Don Trimble and Chuck Sedgewick.

At times displaying the power and pitching that symbolize Rich baseball teams, the little Rockets were unable to sustain a consistent attack and finished the season with a mediocre 6-7 record. High point in the season was a 20-1 victory by Gil Hopper over Reavis. Effective pitching was provided by Hopper and freshman Carter Hill, while Coach Jack Orr's leading hitters were Steve Lasher, Monty Hughes, and Al Liebgott.

Off to a rousing start with a 19-0 pasting of Reavis, the baby Rockets faltered and dropped three close decisions until they crushed arch rival Bloom 11-3, revenging an earlier defeat. STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council launched a full scale improvement program. This included revising the constitution and increasing membership for better representation. One of the major projects this year was the mock elections which were planned to coincide with the national elections. Conventions were held for choosing candidates to represent the four national candidates. This year Rich sent representatives to the Northeast-Northwest District Conference. Another innovation was the Mr. and Miss Pep election to promote school spirit.

Mr. Janota checks apples before annual apple sale.

This service organization, several times winner of the Best Club Award, again sponsored an apple sale as a money raising effort for school improvement. The Key Club plans to culminate this project with the building of a rock garden and a pool in the courtyard. The club assisted in giving a monthly party for the handicapped, and also played an important part in the Homecoming preparations. With the aid of Mr. Janota, the club has continually offered service to Rich and to the community.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

Girls' League, although only in its second year as an organization, has carried out many worthwhile projects. Two fashion shows were held for the benefit of students, parents and faculty wives. Last fall, Girls' League met with each of the freshman girls and new upper-class girls and assigned a big sister to help them become orientated to Rich. Among the many other projects were a father-daughter basketball dinner for the sophomores, a father-daughter dinner dance for the seniors and a mother-daughter tea for the freshmen. All these events, planned with the hope that they will become traditional, are arranged to help the students and parents of the various classes to become better acquainted.

From letterpress to offset—more variety possible in layout, but no professional advice. Pictures taken, identified and then lost. Ten days before deadline with only three of the sixty pages ready. Layouts drawn, rejected and redrawn, copy to write for clubs which had no activities, people in club pictures who had never been seen at club meetings, the photographer running out of film halfway through the schedule. Unsupervised yearbook period with frequent trips to 203 with problems, new faces on the staff and loss of familiar ones—staff pictures retaken again. Rulers smashed, triangles lost, pencils swiped. Lights burning in 226 until ten-thirty or eleven as we struggled to meet deadlines. Finally, in March, as the last pages were mailed to Texas, there was a sigh of relief and a feeling of eagerness mingled with fear as we awaited the finished product—the '61 LAGOON.

REVEILLER

There are many steps involved in getting the Rich High Reveiller to press. The assignments are posted and initialed by the reporters, then comes the problem of interviews and finally the completed copy. The Photographer takes the necessary pictures to make the stories more interesting, while the business staff runs its subscription campaign, sells the ads and handles the other financial aspects involved in the printing of a paper. The sponsor and the editor are forever answering questions like, "I can't write a lead for this story; what shall I say?" and "Whom do I see for this interview?" Somehow the questions are answered, the problems met and the paper goes to press to come back in the form of galley proofs.

REVEILLER . . .

To the editors of the Reveiller falls the task of posting the assignments, writing the headlines, proofreading the galleys and finally making up the pages. Once a week, the staff gets together to make up the final edition. Somehow the insurmountable difficulties, which inevitably arise with every issue, are overcome and the paper goes to press. In spite of all the problems, the Rich High Reveiller won the first class award from the National Scholastic Press Association.

CHOIR

This year, as in past years, the Singing Rockets attended both conference and state music competitions. They caroled at the Borg-Warner Building, played a part in the presentation of the Christmas assembly and, as their major effort, staged Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado. Also included in the year's activities was Christmas caroling at the Shopping Center. A special honor for the choir this year was to be invited to appear on Choral Concert, a weekly show on WTTW-TV, on January 23. The Rich High Choir was the only high school music group scheduled in this series. All other participants were college and industrial choruses.

The Choral Club, under the direction of Mr. James Simpson, presented its annual spring concert in conjunction with the girls' chorus and boys' glee club and performed with a modern dance group at the Thanksgiving concert.

RICH HIGH BAND

From the first downbeat to the final coda, the band has proven once again to be a symbol of Rich High. From crashing cymbals to flowing melodies, the band went through the year providing the school with a musical mood to fit every occasion. They were on the football field spurring our team to victory, at basketball games boosting school spirit, and at parades representing Rich as a high stepping and snappy marching organization. Participating in pep assemblies, the band helped make them the rallies that they were. Highlights of this group's season were two fine concerts.

ORCHESTRA

Cadet Band is a small organization of first year music students at Rich. Acting as a training program for students planning to join Varsity Band, this band participates in two concerts during the year.

Orchestra is a small group, composed of students who have had previous experience in music. The members participated in the presentation of a winter and spring concert.

F.T.A.

In order to learn about every aspect of teaching the Future Teachers of America, under the direction of Mr. Olsen, studied various methods of instruction as well as heard lectures by teachers in different fields. Panels and movies also added to the members' knowledge of their future profession.

F.H.A.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Claflin and Miss Keller, the F.H.A. continued their service to the school and community by baking Christmas cookies for the Red Cross as well as by presenting a faculty tea. An around the world dinner, at which Renata Florio was a speaker, and the Flower Drum Song highlighted the year.

FRENCH CLUB

Le Cercle Francais, accompanying the speech-drama department, highlighted the year by seeing Marcel Marceau. A pot luck supper and the presentation of a French play at the International Christmas Party were other projects that helped its members achieve a better understanding of France and its customs.

The Spanish Club, in order to provide its members with greater insight into Latin American culture, attended many fiestas and Mexican movies as well as heard speakers from various Spanish-speaking countries. The club, sponsored by Mr. Babbitt and Mr. Roe, also hosted the annual Spanish oral contest and in the spring held a picnic with Mexican food.

LATIN CLUB

The Latin Club, a fairly recent addition to the activities of Rich, has had a very eventful year. The year was begun by a trip to Chicago to see "Spartacus." "A Trip through Hades," a Roman wedding and the Roman Banquet proved to be the most interesting projects on the calendar. The evening meetings of the members are planned to help Latin students learn and appreciate Roman culture.

"Banquet" feted Latin students.

AFS STUDENTS

Every year Rich has had a foreign exchange student, and this year's student is Renata Florio from Turin, Italy. Last summer Fred Schneider went to Germany as a representative of Rich High and Park Forest. Both students were sponsored by the AFS.

The American Field Service is a newly organized club this year. The club has been busy sponsoring soc hops and concession stands to raise enough money for Rich to have a foreign exchange student next year. The "Penny Day" and spring "Bermuda Day" raised the money to send one of the Rich students abroad for the summer.

OFFICE AIDES

The office aides, acting in their usual roles as Rich High's "Paul Reveres," helped to relieve the burden placed on the secretaries by helping with the hourly attendance records, carrying messages to the teachers and doing many other of the odd jobs to free Mrs. King and Mrs. Waldron for more important duties.

CREATIVE WRITING

The main purpose of the Creative Writing Club was to help its members enjoy reading and writing as well as improving their own compositions. Reading and criticizing each others' themes and analyzing passages from selected books aided their effectiveness of expression.

Row 1: B. McNeely, J. Nielsen, V. Chen, M. Harwick, L. Reed, S. Kelly, K. Crowell, C. Rasmussen, R. Mecklenburger, N. Powers, C. Fisher, L. Carr, Mr. Marturano

LIBRARY AIDES

Processing books and magazines, they work continually to enable the library to be used effectively. The library aides, who are in close connection with the library, become aware of the various jobs that are necessary to keep it running efficiently.

CAMERA CLUB

This organization affords those interested in photography an opportunity to gain more knowledge and practice in this field. Various members of the club not only take pictures for the newspaper and yearbook but operate their own darkroom in which these pictures are developed.

WRHS

In its second year of broadcasting, the FM station goes on the air every Wednesday evening from five until nine. The programs cover a variety of topics including sports, music and informal talks about Rich's activities. All programs are submitted by the WRHS staff to the FM Board for approval. Future plans include expansion of the program to two nights a week.

ELECTRONICS

The Electronics Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Hunter, has made many worthwhile contributions to our school. The one major project was the building of our radio station WRHS. This is one project that will remain for many years as a symbol of the electronics club as well as a combined effort of many others. This club also has charge of the maintenance and repair of the language laboratories which they helped build last year.

STAMP AND COIN

The Stamp and Coin Club, which was organized last year, gives students interested in learning more about this hobby a chance to come together in order to trade and auction.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Patterned after the Red Cross of America, the Jr. Red Cross has designed its activities to help the underprivileged and the disabled. Sending gifts to orphanages and hospitals was an example of some of their varied service projects.

Biology Club, through speakers and movies, strived to become more familiar with biological science as a career. At their bi-monthly meetings they reviewed projects and held interesting discussions on various topics of general interest.

F.N.A.

The Future Nurses of America, an active service club at Rich, started off the year by sponsoring the first all-school mixer. Hoping to become better acquainted with nursing as a profession, the girls made trips to Mt. Sinai and Evanston hospitals. Included in their major projects this year were the Senior Counseling Tea and the Valentine's Day party for the Oak Forest Infirmary

These girls assisted the nurse in their free hours, putting into practice their medical knowledge. This afforded them an opportunity to acquire greater skill and to learn more in the field of service.

HOMECOMING 1960

Feverish preparation and beautiful weather characterized the 1960 Homecoming festivities. The weekend was officially opened by the pep assembly and crowning of Jan Furgason as Queen.

The entire village resounded as eager Richites wound through the streets to the blazing bon-fire.

Weeks of hard work were richly rewarded the following day as the junior class led the Homecoming parade and the football team tromped the Vikings 25-12.

That evening victory was celebrated in song and dance.

"Will you have your brandy now, sir?" Julie Keplinger asks her "employer," Bruce Klingaman.
Nina Lepinsky ages 40 years—with the help of make-up crew members Zaida McCall, Charlotte Crowell, Marilyn Tate, Sue Dunn, Terri Hattesen.
"She should not love anyone who is not worthy of being loved." Bruce Klingamen announces to Sheila Tierney and Pam Cartwright that he will never consent to his daughter's marriage.
"Someone must love me! Morris must take me away!" consoled by Pam Cartwright, Joy Coats realizes the bitter truth about her lover.
"But the hoops are three feet wide!" Costumes are discussed by Barbara Burbridge, Carol Maroney, and Beth Hawkins.

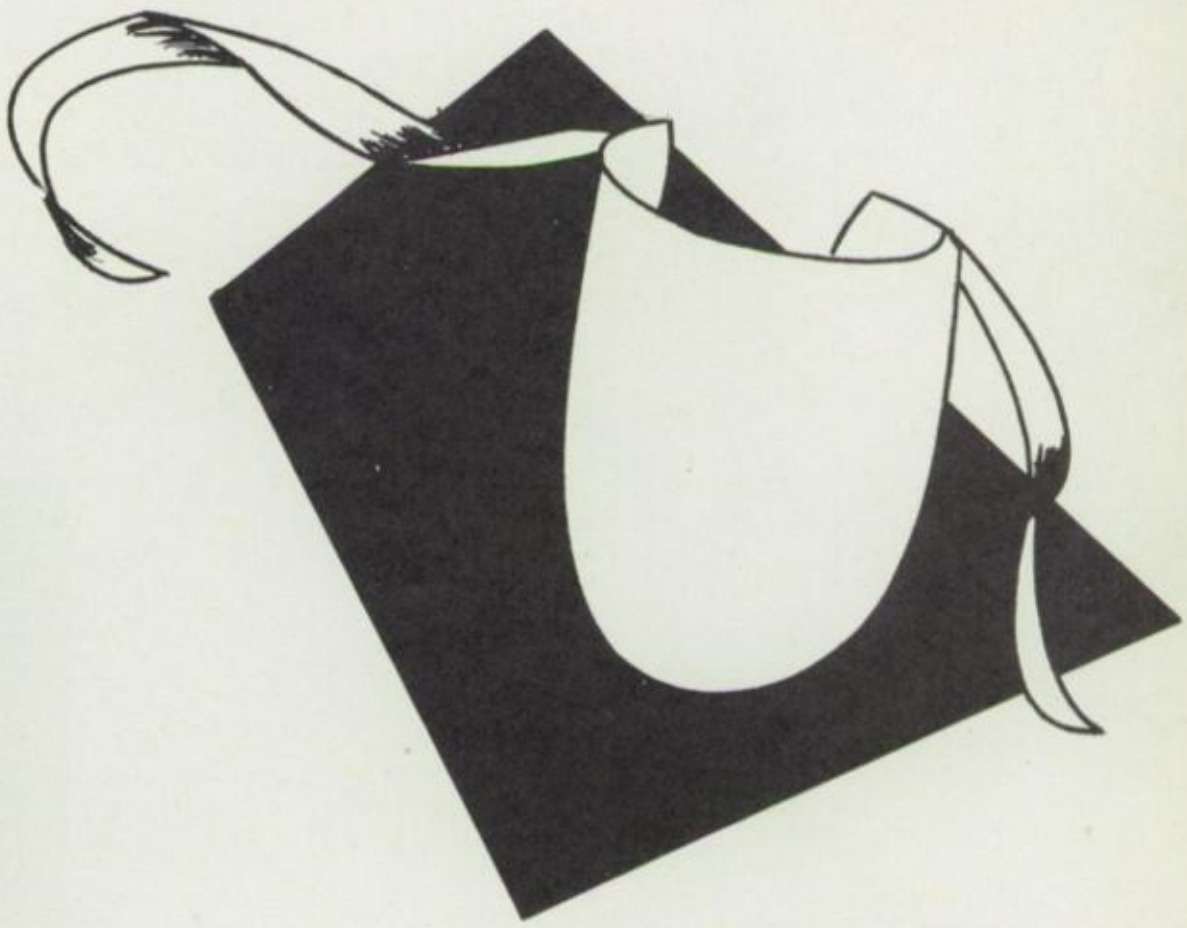
"My father would so like me to be a clever woman," Joy Coats and Pam Cartwright have a heart-to-heart talk.

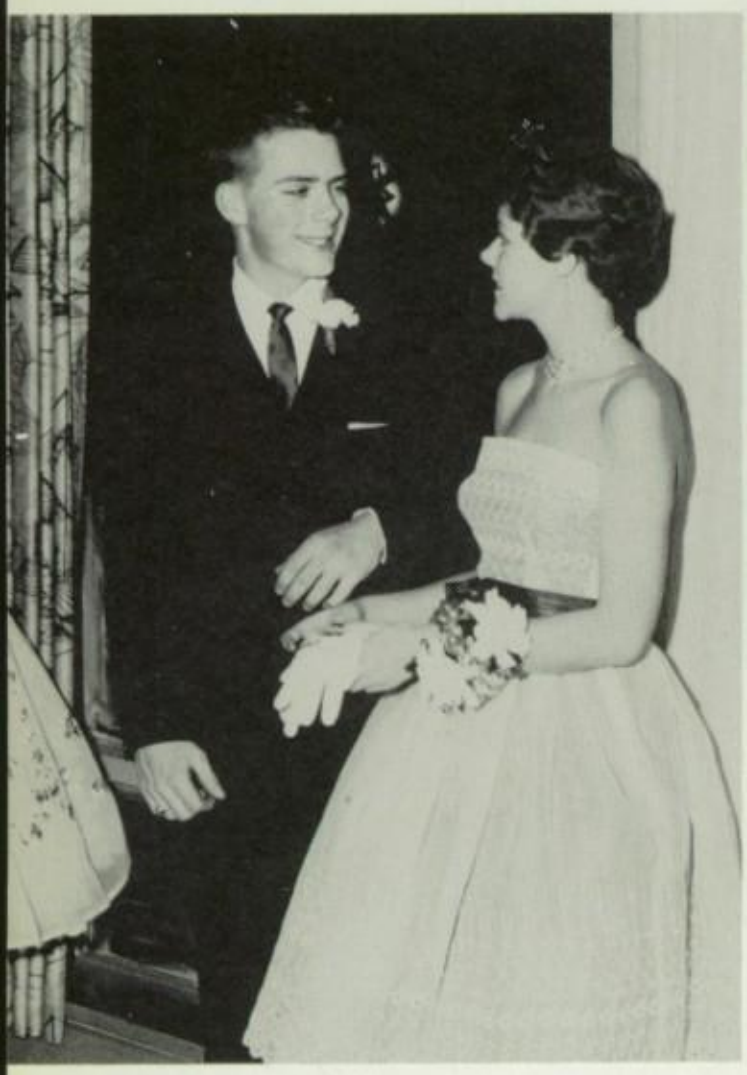
Lights, curtain, action. Well, at least lights—which seem to be the main concern of Marshall Mendelsohn, John Andretich, James Hawthorne and Kemper Baker.



Keeping production running smoothly behind the scenes are managers Gale Storms, Merry Curtis and Penny McClurg.

Gathered for a dinner at the Sloper home are Joyce Rotman, Lee Samdahl, Joy Coats, Bruce Klingaman, Rene Ruffner, Pam Cartwright and Sheila Tierney.

MYSTIC MOMENTS



Weary dancers gather around the refreshment table.

Paul Rapp and Judy LaTourrette

Leaving the silent white world behind, Rich students move into the color and whirl of "Mystic Moments." Pink and lavender decked walls blend with the soft music of Ray Stimson to create that "mystic" mood—the swish of soft satin and shimmering taffeta enhance the glamour of dancing these never to be forgotten moments. "Mystic Moments" like Christmas are mysterious-exciting-memorable!

Elizabeth Sainsbury assisting Harold Marquardt with his boutonniere.

The Mikado ponders the words of Katisha as she explains to the citizens of Titipu that she is "As tough as a bone, with a will of her own."

The MIKADO

Peep-Bo's mind strays from her studies at the ladies' seminary as she flirts with one of the Mikado's guards.

Flowered fans fluttered and feet shuffled in typical oriental fashion as Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado was brought to life by the Rich High School Choir.

A Lord High Executioner with too spotless a record; a runaway son who agrees to die if he may enjoy the happiness of marriage for one month; a scorned woman whose left shoulder blade is a "miracle of loveliness"; a local politician who serves as Lord Chief Justice, Commander-in-Chief, Lord High Admiral, Master of the Buckhounds, Archbishop of Titipu, and Lord Mayor—these are but a few of the characters involved in the sometimes merry, sometimes melancholy, always musical mix-up.

But the Mikado's remark that "virtue is triumphant only in theatrical performances" is certainly apropos in this case; and as the sun sets behind Fujiyama, the kimonoed principals all settle down for a long spell of happy-ever-aftering.

Members of the Mikado's retinue include jesters Nina Lepinsky and Jeri Hoffman, guards Sheila Hogan, Bob Keyes, Diana Hinderliter and Lolita Blume.

"Brightly dawns our wedding day; joyous hour, we give thee greeting!" Yum-Yum and Nanki-Poo celebrate their happiness in song.

The Mikado and Katisha seem to have some difficulty believing that Nanki-Poo, heir to the throne of Japan, has been beheaded.

Her bathing cap firmly in place, Nina Lepinsky adds the finishing touches to the slant of her eyebrows.

Wearied by long hours of rehearsal, Barb Burbridge and Jan Furgason display different reactions to a minor crisis.

KING NEPTUNE

Doug Kincaid and his "Sophisticates."

King of the Sea, "Shel" Stromquist

The Coronation Dance.

All enchanted by Meredith Miniat's beautiful voice.

Buried treasure, one of the surprises at the bottom of the sea.

Excited couples moved into the fascinating aquatic world of "King Neptune."

Nearly a month of anticipation had preceded this moment as girls shy, but anxious, gained enough courage to "pop the question." For this was the Spinster's Spree—the annual turnabout—designed to relieve the boy of the headaches of transportation, reservations, entertainment and deadlines so that he too might enjoy the exhilaration of being taken out on the house.

"King" Shelly Stromquist was crowned and held court over the flying fishes and coquettish mermaids. "The tide rises, the tide falls"—a wonderful evening was ended.

Happy couples enjoying the music of the Sophisticates.

Tired couples relaxing their feet.

SENIOR PARTY

2:00- 5:00—Slipping, sliding and snowball fighting while tobogganing (and climbing 163 steps) at Palos Park.

5:00- 6:00—Still dripping, seniors rush over to Rich to put on the last minute details on decorations.

8:30-11:30—Midst the rolling dice, flappers flapped to the honky tonk and the Roaring Twenties were reborn.

Dear Anne,
Your smile will buy you anything you want in this

CLASSES

CLASS OFFICERS

Jerry Sugar—President, Gay Coats—Treasurer, Sandi Kordewick—Vice President, Vicki Fine—Secretary

Everyone looks forward to high school, but it's a big step from grammar school supremacy to lowly freshmen. There were many first impressions but the freshmen finally became accustomed to the long, cold corridors and all the strange faces.

But, as the year progressed and their problems lessened, new opportunities opened to the freshmen and they began to take an active part in many school activities. They sponsored a successful Thanksgiving Dance and constructed a float for the homecoming parade.

The biggest class in Rich's history is working with eagerness in academic and extracurricular activities in the hope of setting a new record as the graduating class of 1964.

FRESHMEN

Anne,
Lots of luck
in the years to come. I have enjoyed your friendship very much and hope we will be good friends always.
Lots of Luck

CLASS OFFICERS

More matured and better adjusted, the Class of 1963 returned to school with greater confidence. With a year of experience at Rich the sophomores were oriented to the school and faculty, and high school was no longer a problem.

Spirited and capable, they demonstrated their potentialities in practically every phase of school activity. They built a float, handled the coat-check concession, and held a class party. Having survived their first year of high school, the sophomores demonstrated fine spirit both scholastically and athletically.

JUNIORS

Upon returning to school to find themselves in their third year, the juniors found more weighty decisions upon their shoulders. Versatility and leadership distinguished the class of 62 as they moved steadily forward. The juniors started off the year right during Homecoming. The time and the effort the class spent on their float won first place for them. Hard work characterized the juniors as they sponsored the Christmas formal, "Mystic Moments," and took charge of the concession stands. At the end of the year, the juniors produced the final climax of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom.

Gee! It's crowded, isn't it?

Three members of the junior class form an "entertaining" trio

Freshmen in 1957—Seniors in 1961; those four years mean many things. As freshmen they were bedazzled by endless farms. As each year passed they acquired more knowledge and more friends. They saw the enrollment increase rapidly as the feeling developed in themselves for growth through knowledge and understanding of people and ideas. They worked hard; they had fun.

What can the seniors say when the years which once seemed to never end are now the past. This will be a reflective time. The graduating senior has gained more than a mere certificate for fulfilling his four year requirement. He has gained the wealth of academic and social treasures. He asked, listened, relaxed and is now graduating. The spectacle has passed in review. The ambition and desires are achieved in part or forgotten. There were good times and bad, moments of doubt and of discovery.

"Rock-it 2 Victory" over the Vikings: Senior Class float.

TAYLOR PUBLISHING COMPANY
"The World's Best Yearbooks Are Taylor-made"

Anne,
You're a real
sweet girl, may you always have the best of luck. Yours til they make toothpicks out of the Board of Education. Pat Galle

Dear Anne,
Good luck in the future to a very sweet girl.
Love,
Donna Blume

Good Luck.
The first time and shortly thereafter,
I saw you I didn't know your name.
Now I do.
Good Luck Lucifer

Anne,
We've been good friends this year, and I hope we continue. All four of us had fun this year and I hope we continue having fun
together again next year.
Best wishes and good luck in what ever you
do.
Sharon

Anne,
It's been a real pleasure knowing
you this year.
Have a wonderful
summer (Boardwalk)
and the best of luck in what ever you do.
Love,
Barbara
(Ocean City)

Anne -
Good luck
& a sweetie
who really deserves
the best. Have fun
this summer but don't get in Trouble.
I would like more know what have done without Algebra (all the
and me each for everything

homework you've morning) Thanks
Lots of luck always
